Richie Tozier talks coming out, cannabis and crushes

Excerpt of an exclusive interview with Eighty Nine frontman Richie Tozier.

If your radio is broken, or you haven't bothered to check twitter anytime in the last two years, you may not know the ball of comedic chaos that is Richie Tozier. Hailing from Derry, a tiny town in Maine, the six foot tall twenty-two year old is an internet sensation. From his highly successful career as lead vocalist and guitarist for his pop rock band, Eighty Nine, to the strange mix of surreal humor and classic standup that is his twitter and youtube channel, this kid has got his foot in every door imaginable. And only recently did he make both headlines and hashtags when he publicly announced at the New York show of his bands tour that he was bisexual before kissing his bandmate Ben Hanscom on the mouth.

I was lucky enough to sit down with Richie to discuss his coming out, and what the future holds for Eighty Nine.

So, you publically came out as bisexual recently. What were your thoughts and feelings leading up to the show?

Richie : Oh man it was insane. I was so nervous, like, just super jittery before we even left the hotel. I spent like twenty minutes in the bathroom just psyching myself up. It made the guys crazy, Stan [Stanly Uris, pianist in Eighty Nine] almost decked me [he laughs]

Was there a moment when you thought ‘Oh god, I can’t do this?’ or once you got up there it just came out?

R: Oh, it came out alright. [laughs] Yeah, yeah, of course. If you watch like, a video of it or something, there's a second where I'm just silently staring out into the crowd. I remember just freezing up and thinking “Oh my god, I'm about to ruin my career, and the career of my bandmates, and probably my entire management.” and I was kinda just spiralling into this rabbit hole of whose career would be ruined by me coming out. I had managed to make it all the way to my father before Ben grabbed me. He like grabbed my shoulder and whispered, “It's all gonna be okay Rich.” and for a split second everything was fine. And in that split second I blurted it out, and the crowd went crazy and then I kissed Ben, for like no reason. Cause he was there, I guess, and he's cute as hell you know? I felt a little bad, but he said later he was into it so...

So no secret love affair? I'm sure the fans were rooting for you two

R: Oh, god no! [he laughs so hard he almost falls off the chair he's sprawled in] I love Ben a lot, but I'm sure Bev [Beverly Marsh, a bassist in Eighty Nine, and Ben Hanscome's long time girlfriend] wouldn't be happy if me and him eloped. She'd probably hunt me down and kill me for stealing Ben. But who can blame her, Ben's the catch of the century.

Is there anyone you do have your eyes on?

R: Hmm, there's a few. Every single one of my bandmates of course, they're all hot as hell. Especially Mike, [Mike Hanlon, drummer for Eighty Nine] he's a dreamboat. Uhhhh, I'm trying to think off the top of my head who I most jack off too [he laughs, then pauses] I'm allowed to say that right?

Only if you tell us the top three.

R: [laughing] Okay! Umm, My eighth grade math teacher, Miss Florence, Stan [Stan was present for the interview. He didn't seem too happy at being namedropped. Richie later assured him it was a joke] and ...Eddie Kaspbrak.

Eddie Kaspbrak? The singer?

R: Yeah, he's like my dream boy. We grew up in the same town, went to school together. I've been crushing on him since I was like, ten. I remember him being this cute little kid who would, like, yell at you for touching the handle on the bathroom door. We used to be friends. He probably forgot about me though, after he moved away.

Well maybe he'll read this interview and you guys can reconnect?

R: Yeah, maybe. Eds, if you're reading this, tell your mom I miss her!

Edward "Eddie" Kaspbrak (born 3 September, 1997)¹ is an American singer, songwriter and performer. He rose to fame in his late teens after videos of him singing went viral, and was signed to Interscope Records...

Early Life

Kaspbrak was born in Derry, Maine¹², the son of Frank and Sonia Kaspbrak. His father died when he was young¹³. Kaspbrak was removed from his mother's care during his early teenage years and adopted by Elaine and Dennis Holmes¹⁴ ¹⁵. It has been recently

Eddie Kaspbrak Answers The Web's Most Asked Questions

Eddie grins when he's handed the next card. It reads “ is eddie kaspbrak...”

“This is fun,” he laughs as he rips off the first piece of paper, carefully discarding it into the trash can just out of frame. “Is Eddie Kaspbrak gay?”

Eddie sighs, “Yes, sadly I have to be attracted to men.” The exaggerated frown he gives causes someone off camera to giggle. The frown disappears as quickly as it came, and he reveals the next question, “Is Eddie Kaspbrak married to Bill Denbrough?” Eddie giggles and shakes his head, “No I just live with the idiot and put up with the constant clicking of laptop keys.”

“Is Eddie Kaspbrak adopted? Yes! I moved away from my bio mom as a teenager and adopted by the lovely Elaine and Dennis Holmes. I kept my last name though. Next!”

The next question causes his smile to drop, “Is Eddie Kaspbrak dating Richie Tozier?”

There’s a moment of silence before he says, “The day I date that dickwad is the day the world ends.”

Richie Tozier spotted with mystery woman in New York

...Tozier and the woman seemed to be quite close and comfortable, laughing over coffee and spending the day shopping. The identity of the woman is unknown.

Tozier recently came out as bisexual and many were expecting to see him step out with a man (the internet seems to be rooting for Eddie Kaspbrak) but it seems Tozier's not leaving his womanizing ways behind.

is anyone else really uncomfortable with richie tozier and the way he interacts with eddie? like the dude constantly brings up s*nia and it obviously makes eddie super uncomfortable. also the constant nicknames and shit even tho eddie has said multiple times he hates nicknames. i cant be the only one who thinks like this right?

i really hope it's just some weird publicity stunt and they're not actually friends. i don't think eddie would willingly associate himself with someone like richie

Excerpt from an interview with Eighty Nine on their new album
'Loving Someone'

Richie : ...it's kind of a collection of moments. Like the title track, Loving Someone, it was written by me and Stan, and it came from our collective childhood, and all the stuff that used to be shoved into our faces. ' Be straight! Get rich, marry pretty and pop out a few kids! That's the only way to go! ' That's such bullshit! We should all be loving each other, and we shouldn't be pushing all this shit about hetrosexuality on kids, just let them be kids.

Beverly : There's so much going on in the world; kids should be able to explore how they want too.

Ben : Also, we need to start teaching kids it's okay to think. It's okay to disagree with what the media says, with what your parents say. It's okay to be your own person.

Eddie Kaspbrak and Richie Tozier - the internets newest fave couple

... The pair have never been spotted together in public, but with intense public scrutiny, it's not hard to see why they would want to keep their dates under wraps. However, there are multiple pictures of Kaspbrak wearing 'trashmouth' merch. Tozier is the owner of 'trashmouth' a fairly popular line that features pictures of him and his bandmates, as well as original designs based on the bands music. Kaspbrak was pictured wearing a shirt with Eighty Nine member Mike Hanlon one morning while jogging in his neighbourhood.

[picture of Eddie, jogging in running shorts and a shirt with Mike grinning to the camera. He hasn't noticed the paparazzi]

He's also been pictured several times with Tozier's own likeness

[Eddie, getting coffee with an unknown woman. He's in jeans and his shirt is a large picture of Richie with a cigarette dangling from his lips]

Besides many adorable but also questionable twitter interactions (including one that went on for roughly two hours where Kaspbrak lectured Tozier on the importance of personal hygiene), the two have referenced each other in numerous interviews and videos. Tozier even uploaded a cover of 'Eddie my love' by the Teen Queens.

Internet sleuths have managed to track down pictures of the two from childhood, and it seems like the two were close before Kaspbrak was adopted out of Derry, their hometown.

[Eddie and Richie in eighth grade, Richie's arm slung over Eddie's shoulder. Both are sporting massive grins]

Eddie Kaspbrak “FOOLS” Official Lyrics & Meaning

“I see swimming pools and living rooms and aeroplanes

I see a little house on the hill and children’s names”

“I... When I was younger, I was head over heels for this boy. Like so completely gone for him, and every time I saw him I just imagined like, buying a house together, and travelling and kids, like what we would name them and all that shit. In my mind, he was a great dad,” Eddie explains, grinning, “Like, exactly the kind of dad that I wished I had growing up. And I would just get so dizzy like thinking of stupid shit like putting a bandaid on my kids knee while their dad tried to cheer them up, you know? Making jokes and shit.... I think it’s something a lot of people can relate to, being so in love with someone that you imagine this dream future, even though it will probably never come true.”

“Only fools fall for you, only fools

Only fools do what I do, only fools fall”

“This is one of the first songs I ever wrote, when I was in a really hectic time in my life. So it’s kinda sad, wistful. It would’ve never worked back then. Me and him. I think I was too in my head all the time, and all he wanted to be was out of his head. It would’ve never worked.” Despite the sad words, Eddie still has a happy smile spread across his face, “But who knows. If I ran into him today, I think we could be something.”
